Subject: Manuscript reception period 2017 in RCdE.

Dear author(s):

It is a privilege for us that you have chosen the Revista Colombiana de Entomología (RCdE), of the Sociedad Colombiana de Entomología (SOCOLEN), to publish the results of your researches, and for this we would like to express our most sincere thanks. The RCdE is indexed in outstanding scientific journal information systems and, in Colombia, is classified A1 by Colciencias, the entity responsible for the promotion and management of science throughout the country.

The scientific quality of the articles that we publish drives our journal in both national and international spheres and makes it one of the best in the field of scientific publications in its genre. At the same time, this growth imposes certain challenges, one of them is on the maximum number of documents that our editorial team can manage without affecting the necessary processes that satisfy authors and maintain the commitment to quality that we have to our readers.

Due to the above, after an arduous analysis, we have decided to define specific periods for the reception of manuscripts for 2017 as follows:

First call: begins February 15th and closes March 30th of 2017.

Second call: begins August 15th and closes September 30th of 2017.

We hope that we can count on your understanding and support so that we can keep our commitment to making our journal a useful and versatile tool, as much for members of Socolen as for the rest of the national and international scientific and academic communities.

Cordially,

JAMES MONTOYA LERMA
